ROB PARKED CARS

Bicycles Also Disappear; Police Are Puzzled by Outbreak

An epidemic of robberies is sweeping over Glendale. During the past day or two, more homes have been entered and more thefts of articles from machines have taken place than during the two weeks previous. The Glendale police department is being kept on its toes to cope with the unusual wave of crime.

The Peerless Cleaners reported that the home of Mrs. Dyke, 830 North Brand was entered last night and two suits of clothes taken. Detective Royle is investigating.

Mrs. Charles E. Kalcung, of 200 East Broadway, reported that a woman's coat was stolen from her automobile as it stood at the corner of Maryland and Broadway last night. No trace of the missing article has been found.

The home of J. F. McNutt, 557 West Stocker street, was entered by unknown parties Wednesday evening between 7 and 9 o'clock, and a number of articles were taken. The police are investigating this theft.

C. W. Thrump, of 1325 Fifth street, Alhambra, reported to the Glendale police that someone stole an army coat from his car last night while it was standing at the corner of Harvard and Brand. No trace of the garment has been found.

Thieves entered the home of W. D. Baker, 525 Porter street, early last night, and carried away a number of articles of more or less value. The thieves have not been apprehended.

The home of Mr. Scott, 400 Burchett street, was entered and robbed at an early hour last night. The matter was reported to the local police by Mr. Drake, 204 Maryland Court.

Mr. Lenox of 1229 North Pacific avenue, telephoned the police that thieves had entered his home and carried away several articles, the theft taking place at about 8:20 o'clock. Officer Collins has been detailed to investigate this case.

Douglas Bacon, 461 West Myrtle street, reported that while he was attending the carnival at the corner of Maryland and Harvard, someone stole his Peerless bicycle. Up to this time nothing has been heard of the missing bike.

A stray automobile was picked up at 1:30 o'clock this morning at the corner of Colorado and Brand. The registration certificate bore the name of J. W. Grimes of Van Nuys. Believing it to be a stolen automobile the police are holding it.

L. A. EXCHANGE CLUB CHIEF IS GUEST HERE

Dr. William P. Burke, president of the Los Angeles Exchange club was a guest on Wednesday at the regular meeting of the Glendale Exchange club, held at the Broadway Inn on East Broadway.

Dr. Burke, who is a very interesting speaker, told about the aims and objects of the Exchange club and the manner in which they lost a membership drive in the Los Angeles club. He also mentioned the program for 1923, stating that there would be a conference for the various clubs here in the southland, including the one at Long Beach, Los Angeles, Glendale, and others and that a committee would be appointed from each one to hold this conference and arrange plans for the workings of the various clubs.

It was decided at Wednesday's meeting that the Exchange club would not take any stand concerning the dissolution of the Central Pacific from the Southern Pacific railway.

The matter of the Exchange club's dinner dance, was postponed indefinitely, announcement as to date to be made later.

There were about 25 present, the meeting being in charge of W. B. Kelly, president.

Admits Wife Is the Head of His House

WALLA WALLA, WASH., Nov. 2.—"Who's head of your house?" the court asked W. H. Bramlet, on trial for not sending his children to school. "My wife," answered Bramlet. "What would happen if I sentenced her to 15 days in jail?" "I wouldn't know until she got home," answered Bramlet. The court gave the lesser half the 15 days.

NEEDS OF PUBLIC SCHOOL TO BE DISCUSSED

Superintendent White to Submit Report Condition to Board Tonight

Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale city schools, will spend the greater part of Thursday making a survey of school needs that he may be prepared to submit a report at the special meeting of the board of education to be held this evening to discuss the calling of a mass meeting to instruct the board relative to calling an election to vote bonds for school purposes.

Mr. White states that while the school budget included an item of $30,000 for building and repairs, it will, in all probability, be exhausted in meeting the immediate needs. Already the board has been compelled to let a contract for a bungalow classroom on the Pacific Avenue campus and it can see no way of providing accommodations needed before permanent buildings can be erected except to follow the example of Los Angeles and build more classroom bungalows. The $30,000 will also have to cover the complete renewal of two heating plants and the remodelling of another.

While the board has more money to spend than last year, it is likely to need every cent of it. The budget is always calculated along conservative lines with a $10,000 allowance as a margin of safety. It was estimated that it would be necessary to employ 22 more teachers than last year, but already 25 have been engaged with every prospect that two or three more will be needed before the year closes. Against a staff of 96 teachers last year is a teaching enrollment of 122 at the present time, besides janitors, office help, etc.

The board of education is carrying the largest payroll in the city, expending for that purpose approximately $225,000 annually, or nearly a quarter of a million dollars. The balance of its total budget of $261,000 exclusive of the $30,000 for building purposes is all demanded for running expenses.

SALE OF MAINS IS APPROVED BY STATE

Rail Commission Permits Glendale to Close Deal with So. Cal. Gas Co.

An order issued by the railroad commission today approves an agreement under the terms of which the Southern California Gas company is to purchase from the city of Glendale certain gas distributing mains which the city proposes to install in the section of the city known as Verdugo Woodlands. The estimated cost is $48,750 and payments are to be made twice a year until the whole cost of the installations has been paid. The gas company is to make at its own expense, a suitable connecting line between its present system and the new district.

PRESS NEWTON STAGES NEW IDEA

Last evening between the hours of 7 and 7:30 o'clock, radio KFAC reproduced music from the Brunswick phonograph, with a new system of picking up the tone vibrations. Heretofore the records have been broadcasted through a magnavox tone arm bearing directly upon the record itself. The new method used has absolutely no connection with the Brunswick. Fans reported they would have sworn it was an orchestra.

The new schedule of the Press Newton station is from 4:30 to 5 p. m. every day except Sunday and from 6:45 to 7:30 Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

PROF. BAUMGARDT LECTURES ON THE STARS

Shows Wonderful Pictures Through Stereopticon of Sky Studies

This noon at Glendale high its students twice filled the auditorium for the lecture given by Prof. B. R. Baumgardt, on "The Celestial Heavens."

Following a poetic introduction in which he invited his hearers to go with him to the sun, approximately 93 millions of miles away, he declared they would there see a faint mote on the horizon, a seeming atom of star dust—that would be the earth—smaller in circumference than the period on the printed page.

He then showed with a stereopticon wonderful photographs of the films secured at the Lick observatory, which reveal far more than the unaided eye of man can see, for winking is prohibited in astronomy and only the eye of the camera can observe without winking.

He commented on the wonderful work of astronomers and mentioned his discovery a few years ago—that the state was paying one of its janitors more than the salary with which it rewarded the director of the observatory. But, he commented, they were working not for money but for science and humanity, and would have an immortality which the janitors could not share.

BAD CHECK ARTIST GATHERS HARVEST IN GLENDALE

A. H. Weyant, an alleged bad check artist, has appeared, which is the reason for a number of Glendale merchants seeing "red."

G. Heminger of 1420 South Glendale avenue, appeared at the Glendale police department yesterday and presented a check which he claimed was bogus. It had been given to him by a man claiming to be A. H. Weyant, and who said he was employed in building septic tanks in the Verdugo Woodlands country. He stated that when he presented the check at the bank for payment he was told that there were no funds there to meet it.

This, said Heminger, was followed by a trip up into the Verdugo Woodlands country. Several hours were spent in searching the country but no one by the name of Weyant could be found. Heminger then reported the matter to the police.

Mr. Heminger stated that when he presented the check for payment at the bank, he found a number of other merchants of Glendale who had received checks from Weyant and were unable to convert them into cash.

U.S. IS OUT OF LEAGUE FOR GOOD

Will Act Independent of European Nations' Organization

INSIST ON ACCEPTANCE

Before Entering World Court Wishes Attitude Understood

By A. L. BRADFORD
(Copyright, 1922, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The United States intends to remain independent of the league of nations.

This is one of the prime considerations that this government has in mind as President Harding and Secretary Hughes are conducting negotiations designed to make America an official party to the permanent court of international justice, commonly known as the world court.

Before the United States will become a signatory power to the world court, Secretary Hughes must secure an agreement of the powers, members of the league of nations and the court to such conditions and modifications in the protocol of the court as will insure American independence of the league, it is believed in informed quarters here.

Even so, the negotiations which Washington has initiated for making the United States an official member of the world court are already being interpreted and probably will continue to do so, as at least a moral victory for the league of nations principle and as evidence of this country relenting in its attitude of strict aloofness from the concert of nations represented in the league.

Even after an agreement may be reached with the other powers for the membership of the American government in the world court the proposed adherence of the United States to the protocol of the court must be ratified by the senate, as is the case of any treaty arrangement. This, of course, is being taken fully into consideration by the president and Mr. Hughes.

It was not long after the Harding administration came into office that the question of the United States becoming a member of the world court came to the fore in the attention of Secretary Hughes. In answer to heckling from abroad because of alleged disregard of invitations for this country to become a member of the court, Hughes' attitude was explained as follows:

That while formal invitations had been received, this government could not take any action such as becoming a member of the international court unless it had treaty authorization from congress.

The world court is admittedly "a child" of the league of nations. Its creation was provided for by article 14 of the league covenant. The name league of nations is scattered throughout the text of the protocol of the court. The judges of the court are elected by the council and assembly of the league.

The secret has long been out that Hughes favors the adherence of the United States to the world court in some form or another and it is confidently believed that he can secure an agreement on an arrangement to this end that will thoroughly protect the interests and policies of the government.

COMMUNITY SERVICE IS ORGANIZED

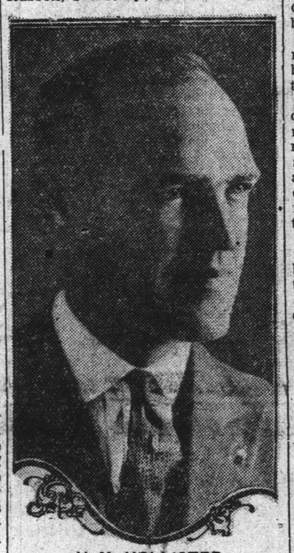
V. M. Hollister Becomes the Head of New Organization in Glendale Civic Life

EASTMAN IS TREASURER

Jesse Smith Heads Ways and Means Committee; Mrs. C. H. Toll, Education

In a spirit of the greatest harmony and co-operation the newly appointed executive committee of the Glendale Community Service met at the chamber of commerce rooms Wednesday evening and perfected its organization, by electing the following officers and committee chairmen:

V. M. Hollister, president; Jesse Smith, first vice-president; C. E. Kimlin, 2nd vice-president; C. H. Toll, 3rd vice-president; Dr. Jessie Russell, secretary; A. R. Eastman,



V. M. HOLLISTER
President, Community Service

treasurer; chairman of ways and means, Jesse Smith; chairman of education in community service, Mrs. C. H. Toll; chairman of program committee, Richardson D. White; chairman of membership, L. T. Rowley.

It was agreed that chairmen should choose other members of their committees, which should not be limited in number.

L. T. Rowley, as chairman of the temporary committee, submitted a report of its action and of the program suggestions it had received from R. D. White and his committee. These suggestions were discussed at some length and adopted by the permanent committee, and a wire was sent to the national community service headquarters in New York asking that a director for a recreation institute be sent as soon as possible.

The lighting of the tennis courts on the high school grounds and their use for community service in the evening was also discussed and a committee was chosen to negotiate with the school trustees and the city council relative to the matter.

Mr. Eastman was made chairman of a committee delegated to secure office space for community service promotion work.

A communication from a recently established organization asking for recognition as Community Service Players, signed by Hugh Blue as president and Dorothy Morton as secretary, was read, showing that the community service idea has already taken root. The communication stated that the group numbers twenty players who are rehearsing three one-act plays to be ready for December production.

Besides the actual business transacted there was general discussion of community service work, its many forms and the big field which all admit is offered by Glendale. It was felt that a strong corps of officers had been secured, the organization being especially fortunate in persuading Mr. Hollister who has made such a fine record as head of the chamber of commerce to take the presidency. No man is better acquainted with the resources and needs of our city, nor better qualified to push the work the committee has undertaken to promote.

RAILROADS OPEN ATTACK ON EIGHT HOUR DAY

Chicago & Alton Asks Railroad Board to Modify Rules

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Railroads of the country today opened the battle for abolishment of the 8-hour day among train service employes with the filing of a petition before the United States railroad labor board by the Chicago and Alton, asking modification of working rules.

The Alton asked:

1.—Abolishment of time and one-half pay for overtime in road freight, transfer and hostler service.

2—Extension of the time limit of service in short turn around passenger service from 8 to 10 hours.

3—Extension of the work-day in outlying yards.

"This is the first step by the railroads to abolish or radically modify rules governing the working of train service employes," declared a statement made by engine and trainmen brotherhoods. "If the Alton's petition is granted, other roads can be expected to immediately take advantage of the opening.

"The Alton is picked to make the test case because it is in the hands of a receiver and the ability to pay has been a prime factor in previous decisions by the railroad labor board."

Railroad executives here would not comment on the Alton case, but admitted they were watching the outcome closely.

Railroad union leaders have long contended that as soon as the wage reduction and change in working rules of other classes of employes, such as the shopcrafts, maintenance of way workers, had been successfully put into effect, the railroads would concentrate on the trainmen's brotherhoods.

While individual railroads have filed similar petitions in the past before the board, they did not have the backing of all the lines, and indefinite postponements were granted in most cases.

CHAPERON PLEDGE IS ADVOCATED

Juvenile Court Chairmen Plan If Adopted to be Submitted to All Associations

Many Schools Represented at the Gathering, Which Is Enthsiastic

"Workers of right, for right's sake in kindness, sympathy and understanding, may we help and inspire anyone with whom our work brings us in contact?" This was the creed adopted Wednesday at the meeting of the Juvenile Court chairmen of the various P.-T. A. organizations, held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Dotson, 333 West Harvard street. Mrs. Dotson is chairman of the federation and is the originator of this creed which truly expresses the aim of these juvenile court chairmen.

The question of chaperonage was the most important item discussed on Wednesday at the meeting of the juvenile court chairmen of the various Parent-Teacher associations, which was held at the home of the Federation chairman, Mrs. W. H. Dotson, 333 West Harvard street.

Each member present was enthused over the prospect of this year's work, even though they know there is much to be done.

It is planned that there will be a chaperonage pledge and each parent is to sign this pledge, if it is adopted by the association to which they belong, and of course, the pledges will be handled through the P. T. A.

Juvenile chairmen present and the schools they represented are as follows: Mrs. C. A. Crawford, Central avenue; Mrs. Hartley Shaw, Glendale high school; Mrs. Bird, Wilson avenue intermediate; Mrs. Doty, Cerritos avenue; Mrs. Camphouse, Colorado street; Mrs. McDowell, Acacia avenue; Mrs. Bowlus, Broadway; Mrs. E. B. Moore, Federation president; L. T. Rowley, attendance officer, and Mrs. W. H. Dotson, Federation chairman.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Dotson served tea and wafers.

SPANISH WAR VETS TO PARTICIPATE IN PARADE

Vote to Parade in Armistice Day's Demonstration

The members of the Spanish-American War Veterans will attend the big Armistice Day celebration in a body, according to a decision reached at the meeting of that organization last night. The members decided to meet at the hall and proceed to the formation point en masse.

At last night's meeting five new candidates were voted into membership. These were: C. B. Guittard, Lionell Wolf, F. G. Beylik, Edward Yard and Lyman P. Clark.

The organization decided to change its meeting place from the Legion hall to the Knights of Pythias hall at the corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard, at which place the next meeting will be held. The change was made because the K. of P. hall embodies features that are desired and which the Legion hall does not possess.

NEW FIREPROOF WAREHOUSE TO BE BUILT

Robinson Brothers Transfer and Storage Company to Expand

The construction work on a five-story, Class A, reinforced concrete warehouse to cost between $40,000 and $45,000 and to be located on the southwest corner of Elk and Central, will be started Monday morning by the Robinson Brothers' Transfer and Storage company. The building will be absolutely fireproof and will be the tallest structure in Glendale. The business of this company has grown so rapidly during the seven years it has been in its present location that larger and more convenient quarters are absolutely necessary. Mr. Robinson stated this morning that the new building will be completed and ready for occupancy in about five months.

The size of this building will be 50x80 feet, and the additional 70 feet at the rear will be used for garage purposes. The foundation is being installed sufficiently strong for an eight-story building, the intention being to erect the additional three stories when the necessity arises.

Material for this building is now arriving on the ground. Some of it arrived Wednesday, and more will be placed during the remainder of this week.

The first floor of this new building will house the offices, piano storage department, packing room, loading and unloading platform. On the second floor will be an open storage room. The third floor will be taken up by private storage rooms. These will be sixty in number and will be built to accommodate furniture of from one to seven rooms each. The fourth and fifth floors will be taken up by open storage spaces.

The building will be equipped with a large freight elevator, which will serve all floors, and on the corner of the first floor will be a storeroom 18x50 feet which will be rented.

This building was designed by and will be constructed by Engineer Edward T. Flaherty of Los Angeles.

SPECTACULAR SALE AT BROADWAY PHARMACY

The mammoth one-cent Meritol sale started at the Broadway Pharmacy, corner Kenwood and Broadway, this morning. The feature of this sale is that two of any kind of Meritol article can be secured for one cent more than the price for one. For instance, two 50-cent articles can be purchased for 51 cents.

This promises to be one of the biggest sales of its kind ever held in Glendale. A large number of standard articles of unquestioned merit are listed under the name of Meritol, these including toilet preparations of all kinds, stationery, water bottles, medicines, candies, shaving preparations and the like. Everything, states Geo. A. Whitaker, proprietor of the Broadway Pharmacy, is of the highest order. The sale is not being held to get rid of a lot of shop-worn goods, but is being put on to advertise to the people of Glendale the real merit of the Meritol line of medicine and toilet preparations.

This sale will continue over Friday and Saturday, and every article on sale is guaranteed to give entire satisfaction.

"Whang Doodle" of Catalina Is Here

While the Hi Y camp was maintained this summer at Catalina it published a daily which contained announcements of activities to come and reports of events that had happened, together with much small chat of personal interest. It was entitled "The Whang Doodle."

Secretary Rex Kelley has just received a handsome souvenir number which is to be sent to everyone who attended the camp. It bears a special design on the cover and a photo of the camp and the text is a mimeograph review of the summer's doings.

FAST MILKERS TO WIN PRIZES AT PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—One of the stunts the management of the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, which opens here November 4, has planned for the amusement of spectators and the edification of dairymen is a milkmaids' contest.

The girl or woman who can milk the greatest amount of butterfat in a given length of time will be given a nice cash prize. The cow aiding the winning maid by her gentle acquiescence will be rewarded with a nice handful of cottonseed meal.

Numerous entries have applied for the right of participation in the contest. A total of $150 has been set aside as cash prizes for the lucky contestants.

Here's the way the contest will be conducted: A line of cows will be tethered on one side of the dairy show hall. On the other side they will line up the dainty dairy maids, all in white, each with a bright new pail, a comfortable stool, and two hands eager to milk. At a given signal these maids will dash to the cow assigned her, seat herself and milk furiously for five minutes. The ten highest will enter the second heat. In the fourth and last heat two maids will milk for the championship.

Just how the contest will thrill the onlookers is not known, but the cows should get a great kick out of it.

Two Injured in Anto Accident on Verdugo

Capt. John A. Strasser of Bur avenue, La Canada, and Miss Behn, also of that place, were injured last night when their automobile, which Capt. Strasser was driving, was wrecked on Verdugo road. The injured ones were brought in by Glendale police. Miss Behn's injuries were cared for at the Glendale Pharmacy, corner Glendale avenue and Broadway, and Capt. Strasser was sent to the Glendale sanitarium.

Latest reports show that both of the victims are getting along nicely.

Ikey's wife had met with a serious accident.

"It's a terrible business, Isaac," said he to his friend.

"Yeth, it ith," Isaac replied.

"Yeth, she's quite dumb."

"Is that so?"

"Yeth, she can't talk at all."

"But that is terrible, Ikey! How did it happen?"

Ikey shook his head mournfully. "Vell, you see, the car ran over both her hands."

WILL THIS DAUGHTER GET $100,000?

Six years ago, when Josephine Kryl was 18 and her sister, Marie, was 16, Bohumir Kryl, world-famous musician, offered them $100,000 each if on their 30th birthdays they had not married, but had devoted their lives to the violin. Josephine met and loved Paul Taylor White, a Boston musician-composer. They were married and she was cut off. Kryl turned to Marie to carry out his desire and become a great musician, but Marie, though still unmarried, announced her sympathies were entirely with her sister.

FORGET ME NOT DAY'S APPEAL VOICED HERE

Mrs. Rodman Robeson of Executive Committee Tells of Disabled Men

Forget-me-not day and its appeal was presented forcefully in Glendale by Mrs. Rodman Robeson, of the Executive committee for the drive.

"There are hundreds and thousands of disabled soldier boys in this country that are deserving of help," said Mrs. Robeson in presenting the matter. "Los Angeles and Southern California gets the overflow of these unfortunate men. They are coming here at the rate of 25 to 50 per day, and we are not able to care for half of them. Some of these poor fellows have their families with them and when they land here they have absolutely no way of caring for themselves or their loved ones. Many of these poor boys have tuberculosis and other afflictions contracted in the world war.

"I think the people of today are prone to forget the sacrifices that were made by these unfortunate boys not so very long ago. We have one boy on our list who, when he went to war, left a job paying him $300 per month. Today he is selling pencils on the street corner in his attempt to care for his family. There are many such unfortunate young fellows.

"We are expecting that Glendale will do her share in the way of providing funds for this purpose. We know she will. It is our aim to sell tags and to circulate small tin donation cans. The people of Glendale may give any amount they care to, but we do expect everyone to give something."

It is expected that the American Legion will appoint all the workers necessary to put this drive over in fine style. A local bank will be designated as treasurer for the drive, and at the completion of the drive and when all of the funds have been turned in this bank will report to Marco H. Hellman, chairmen of the citizens' committee of Los Angeles, and Los Angeles county, all funds, less necessary expenses, accompanied by an itemized report of the same. Up to this time the name of the bank has not yet been selected.

It is the purpose of the American Legion of Glendale to secure the cooperation of all women's clubs and fraternal organizations to assist, as well as their auxiliaries, to furnish sufficient workers to sell tags. If unable to secure sufficient workers through these channels, volunteers will be called for. Sealed receptacles will be furnished in which to receive the money from the sale of tags and donations. These receptacles are not to be opened except by the local bank under the supervision of the committee in charge.

It is believed that the Boy Scouts of Glendale will turn in and assist in this drive. Their work will be to help in parades, publicity, and cooperate with workers on tag day.

The people of Glendale have not forgotten the great sacrifices of the boys in the world war. The vacant sleeve or the crutch are sure to touch the hearts of the people of this city. Glendale folks are human. They have real, sympathetic hearts. They are not the kind that passes by on the other side. They have demonstrated this fact—not only once, but dozens and dozens of times. An appeal for help hits the average Glendalian right where he lives.

Never has the Glendalian failed to "come through" in response to an appeal of this character. Never has he stopped to question whether or not the giving of a dollar or of ten dollars would take a few of the luxuries from his table. His thoughts have been on "the other fellow," the man who is in need.

Glendale will not "fall down" in this drive. She will oversubscribe. She will bat 100 per cent. Let every resident put a little loose change in his pocket on Saturday. Drop it in the little tin can, and by so doing help to bring cheer and happiness to some stricken hearts.

MEN WHO ARE INTERESTED IN ENGLISH UPHEAVAL

The resignation of David Lloyd George as British Premier and the calling of Andrew Bonar Law to form a new cabinet bring these men into prominence. Philip Sassoon is Lloyd George's secretary and political adviser. Lord Curzon and the Earl of eDrby, Conservatives, have promised to support Bonar Law. Lord Balfour, Lord Birenhead and Austen Chamberlain, Lord Privy Seal, were members of the George ministry. General Sir George Younger and Sir Eric Geddes, brother of the British minister to Washington, had much to do with the overthrow of Lloyd George.

DE WITT CUYLER IS FOUND DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.— Thos. DeWitt Cuyler, 68, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, was found dead in the private car of President Rea of the Pennsylvania railroad here today.

Cuyler was a director of the Pennsylvania railroad and counsel for many big corporations, was in Rochester, N. Y., last night and came to this city in Rea's business car.

ALBANIA IN REVOLT

ATHENS, Nov. 2.—A revolution has broken out in Albania and the government has fled from Tirana and taken refuge in Valona, according to reports from Florina today. Troops of the Albania government are reported to be retreating before the insurgents.

The reported revolt in Albania was believed connected with the accession of Benito Mussolini to power in Italy.

A reckless chauffeur is a sort of automaniac.

FLIES AT MORE THAN FOUR MILES A MINUTE

Here is Lieut. R. L. Maugham of the U. S. army air service, winner of the Pulitzer air race in Detroit at 206 miles an hour. Then to show how fast his Curtiss racer, powered with a 400-horse-power Curtiss motor, really was, Lieut. Maugham flew over a measured kilometer at the dazzling speed of 248.5 miles an hour—more than four miles a minute, and faster than any human being ever traveled before. At that speed he could cross the American continent in less than ten hours.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

THAT you should get the boosting habit. Your city is worthy of your continuous service.

THAT "chewing the rag" all the while, gets you nowhere. It is the doing of things that counts.

THAT to carry good merchandise and to advertise your business and wares well, to deal honorably, fairly and squarely at all times, with all customers, is the way to succeed in business.

THAT even a man with millions must work—He must work to keep it.

THAT there is no substitute for work and advertising.

THAT there are some citizens who forget the merchants in their own home city, immediately when they become in possession of some ready cash, they are inclined to step on the train or drive their car and go to some other city in hopes of getting some bargains.

THAT it should be borne in mind that the merchants in their own home city are deserving of every consideration. Your own home merchants carry large, seasonable stocks. You can't help your city by buying away from home and expect your city to continue to grow. Buy at home, keep your money in your own city and do your share to make it a bigger and busier city.

NEW YORK EXPERT DESIGNER OF HATS HERE

Miss Virginia Gorham Comes to Brand Dept. Store for Opening.

The many friends and customers of the Brand department store on North Brand boulevard were pleased to note that the management of that establishment had secured the services of Miss Virginia Gorham, chief designer of Burgesser Hats, inc., of New York, for its opening on Saturday and Monday last. Miss Gorham passed the evening discussing with those who attended this opening, the present styles in vogue in the east and also those that Paris is forecasting for the spring.

This was Miss Gorham's initial visit in Southern California and to say that she is enthusiastic about this country is putting it mildly. It is solely on account of her liking for Glendale, and Glendale people, that she consented to delay her trip east to be present at the opening of the Brand department store. She will leave soon for her semi-annual trip to Europe.

Mrs. Shaw Attends Probation Meeting

Mrs. Hartley Shaw of this city attended the regular monthly meeting of the county probation committee which met for luncheon at the Broadway cafe, Tuesday noon. The two most important matters which came before the committee were, first, the transfer of the poultry department from Juvenile hall to El Retiro, at San Fernando. The truck farming at El Retiro has had to be abandoned on account of climatic conditions and it was decided that the poultry industry could be substituted to provide manual work for the girls. The second matter discussed was the increasing of facilities for taking cars of small nursery children as Juvenile hall is too crowded at present to accommodate them.

If ever there was a Godly man, it was the late lamented Congressman-elect Charles F. Van de Water, an honored and beloved member of the M. E. Church. And yet this same slimy lie was used against him, in the charge that he had a $50,000.00 slush fund from the wet interests. The answer to this slander was 27,000 majority against Randall. Now, the same base tactics are being used against Major Lineberger. Will the voters of the Ninth Congressional District stand by CONGRESSMAN LINEBERGER as they did our lamented friend, Van de Water?

AN OPTIMISTIC SERMON

From a sermon recently delivered, the following paragraph, among others, is well worth quoting:

"Every reform that we enjoy today came by revolution, upheaval and agitation; and out of our industrial and social unrest, a civilization of social progress is being born."

This is a sharp contrast with the frequent prediction of evil. It is not difficult to get into a mood in which it seems not only that civilization is at stake, but that the promise of the collapse is not a better civilization, but chaos.

That individuals are grossly selfish still is true. That the national body, made up of citizens, must partake of the character of the individuals, cannot be denied. Yet even the agitator, whose fulminations against the prevailing order are so extreme as to appear actual treason towards all accepted conventions, may be impelled to his course by an acute sense of wrong. Even if he has exaggerated the importance of this wrong, and even if his proposed remedy may be dangerous and absurd, still, he has called attention to conditions that should be corrected.

It is possible that the student of human affairs may be misled by the clamor of the vociferous minority. Such a tumult of protest assails him, that he fears the world has gone daft; that it has brooded over its troubles too long, and too poignantly. He forgets the vast majority that gives little voice to its opinions, but that has opinions, and is qualified, without noise and fury, to defend them.

Complete absence of unrest would be stagnation. If the discordant shouts awaken the majority to a sense of its duty; if the struggle for the attainment of justice, possibly futile in itself, calls attention to the fact that there is injustice, and that the sound it stirs is not an empty cry, then agitation has a place in making civilization better and stronger.

THE OPEN FIREPLACE

A writer remarks with regret that the open fireplace soon will cease to be a feature of the home. There is little tendency in present architecture to bear out the prophesy. The person building a home here stipulates for the open fireplace in most instances. In the purchase of a home already constructed, the presence of a fireplace is regarded as an inducement. The open fire is singularly well adapted to climatic conditions that seldom involve a temperature lower than may be classed as chilly. As to the old-fashioned fireplace that occupied almost the entire side of the room, it naturally has gone. In severe climates it could warm an interior only by making part of it unendurably hot. Flames might roar up the chimney, and the face be scorched, while the back still felt the rigors of a New England winter. The amount of fuel consumed would make such a fire appear wanton waste. Few save the owner of abundant woodland could afford to meet the expense now.

If the fireplace ever shall disappear, this will be due to electric current. In the city of Tacoma, and perhaps others, fine houses are being erected without any chimneys. This means the abolition not only of fireplaces, but of all flues that allow the functioning of stoves or any appliance producing heat from fuel. In the city mentioned, where wood is much cheaper than in southern California, electric current may be had at a cost so trifling in comparison, that the consumption either of wood or coal would be an extravagance. It is not improbable that here, in time, the current will be as cheap as in the northwest.

Under conditions as they prevail at present, the open fireplace is as much as ever in demand. It adds to the hominess of a living room. It does not require much fuel. It is at once an ornament and a comfort. To lament its disappearance is premature. Certainly it will stay until some better method has become available.

THE GREAT WORLD

Many years have passed since people of intelligence ceased to regard the little globe on which they dwell, as the center of the universe. The idea that the firmament of heaven was arranged with a view to supplying inhabitants of the earth with comforts and delights, vanished long ago. Science has stated and proved that far from being the center of things, the earth is relatively a speck. Measured by some of the other bodies revealed, it shrinks to the proportions of a grain of dust. In the great army of constellations it plays so minor a role as to be almost negligible.

Recent discoveries show forth a state of absolute facts so far beyond human grasp that the effort to state them in intelligible terms must come to naught. They must be accepted, but they are incomprehensible. When it is said that a globular cluster of stars has been found in the Constellation Lynx, no special meaning is conveyed to the lay reader. When there is added to this, information that the cluster appears to be 165,000 light years from the earth, a train of thought is set up. Light travels 186,000 miles a second. A "light" year represents the distance it covers in the space of a calendar year.

Put into another form, the distance to the new stars may be given as 990 quadrillions of miles. And beyond them, what?

"Man is but a breath and shadow," said Sophocles. Gazing into space that has no limit, discerning there unspeakable wonders, the modern may realize this even more clearly than the philosopher of old.

FIGHTING THE FASHIONS

President Frank Parsons of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, has fired a broadside at prevailing fashions as observed in the garmenting and ornamentation of women. Doubtless the heart of the gentleman is just where it ought to be. His artistic temperament is finding legitimate expression. Nevertheless he might as well have expended his breath in whistling against a tornado. Fashion does not look to culture or to genius for the patterns it follows. For some reason yet to be explained, perhaps, it looks to a certain social unit in Paris. Women will wear exactly what they are told is the proper thing to wear, if they can get it. Apparently they care nothing for comfort, convenience or economy. They obey orders. In instances it is possible that they do it with protest, but they never hesitate about doing it.

Mr. Parsons objects to the wearing of furs in summer; to baby colors on the mature; to headdresses voluminous as mattresses; to the nomadic waistline which pauses at any point save alone the waist. Of course he objects. So does everybody else. Femininity, sweetly and with a smile, ignores the objection, although possibly sharing it, and that is the end of the matter.

For years women had enjoyed the freedom and safety of the short skirt. To almost all of them it was becoming. Blushing at first, they had learned to prize the garment, not only as sightly and sanitary, but as a sort of token of liberty. Then somebody over the ocean said that the short skirt had had its day. It started towards the pavement forthwith. In another season it may touch the filth of the streets; a season later it may drag a yard on the ground. All depends upon the dictum of Paris. What ever that may be, it will be followed with meekness and celerity.

This is a single illustration of a puzzling truth. It is sufficient to prove that the artistic New Yorker might as well keep still. He does not hold a single chip in the game.

AGAINST THE JEWS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A correspondent writes me that in a recent newspaper the following charges were brought against the Jews:

Dr. Frank Crane

1. Unethical and dishonest business practice.
2. Disregard of rights of others.
3. Laxity of morals.
4. Ignorance of culture and refinement.
5. Destructiveness.
6. Cowardliness in the face of adversity (failure, fire or flight).
7. Avarice.
8. Failure to return good for evil.
9. Disrespect of Christianity.
10. Claims of persecution or prejudice.

My correspondent wants to know my opinion upon these charges.

My opinion is that they are utterly and dangerously malicious.

The same charges might be brought against the Methodist, the Roman Catholics, the English, the Irish, the New Yorkers and the inhabitants of Tie Siding.

In other words, they might well have been brought against any group of human beings anywhere in the world.

The fundamental principle of sound Americanism is that one race of men is as good as another, no better and no worse.

America is founded upon the integrity of humanity.

All race prejudices and all endeavors to inflame it and all indulgence in its dangerous intoxication are unworthy of a decent mind.

I am not a Jew, but I have found among the Jews some of the most brilliant idealists I have met, splendidly careless of material things.

I came from Main street out in Illinois, and back there I know some of the orneriest specimens of the human race which it has been my privilege to meet.

I have travelled in most parts of the world, and in some sections of New Jersey, and I have never been able to find any fundamental difference in people.

And my conclusion is that whoever allows himself to slump into such statements as that all Presbyterians are strait-laced, or all Jews are vulgar, or all Roman Catholics superstitious, or all Englishmen snobs, or all Americans after the Almighty dollar—whoever indulges in this sort of group thinking is simply lazy-minded and unfit for the business of thinking at all.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A man who raised bees, if that is a correct way of saying it, was busy with his bees.

And with the combs and hives and other things that have to do with bee culture.

He knew his business.

Which was to get bees to work for him.

And he took the fruit of their labor in honey.

Of course, honey is not a fruit, but it is the fruit of the labor of bees.

* * *

So the bee man was interested and busy and happy at his task.

For whoever is interested and busy at the same time is happy.

For interest and busy-ness make him forget himself.

And the first step in happiness is to forget yourself.

To forget yourself and all your aches and ailments and pains and disappointments and regrets and all that.

* * *

And if you would be happy, become interested in something useful.

And then be busy at the thing you are interested in.

And the problem is solved.

If you do not believe it, try it sometime.

Lack of interest in life makes dullness.

Lack of interest in work makes drudgery.

* * *

So while the bee man was busy an astronomer came along.

And he told the bee man of the wonders of the universe.

The immensity of space and the incalculable orbits of celestial bodies and of diameters and triangulations and all that.

* * *

And the bee man listened.

For he was not deaf or blind to the things in the universe.

And the knowledge of celestial bodies interested him.

But not as much as his bees.

For that was his chief business.

* * *

And the astronomer asked the bee man to leave his work and go with him to a place where he could look through great telescopes and see marvelous photographs.

And where he could gain more knowledge of the universes in space.

But the bee man shook his head.

For he was busy with his bees.

* * *

And the astronomer wondered.

And asked the bee man if his vision was so small that he would not leave bees for planets.

And the bee man replied that he had all the respect in the world for planets.

But that his living came from bees.

And they would have to take first place.

* * *

And the astronomer asked him if he thought bees more important than the course of planetary bodies.

Or the distance of fixed stars.

And the bee man said it all depended.

If you wanted hot biscuits with honey, then for that particular moment bees were more important than planets.

* * *

So it all depends.

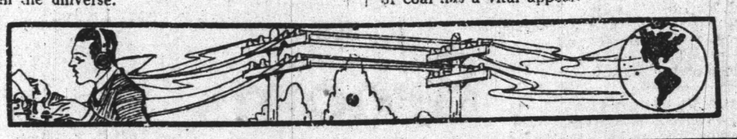
To the stranded motorist on the road gasoline is of first importance.

And there is a lot in the doctrine of relativity.

The importance of something depends on how much you need it at the moment.

To the stranger in the tropics perhaps a palm leaf fan is as desirable as anything.

But to the man in the arctic regions, a ton of coal has a vital appeal.



Songs of the Poets

Of Those Who Walk Alone—By Richard Burton (1859)

Women there are on earth, most sweet and high,
Who lose their own, and walk bereft and lonely,
Loving that one lost heart until they die,
Loving it only.

And so they never see beside them grow
Children, whose coming is like the breath of flowers;
Consoled by subtler loves the angels know
Through childless hours.

Good deeds they do: they comfort and they bless
In duties others put off till the morrow;
Their look is balm, their touch is tenderness
To all in sorrow.

Betimes the world smiles at them, as 'twere shame,
This maiden guise, long after youth's departed
But in God"s book they bear another name—
"The faithful-hearted."

Faithful in life, and faithful unto death,
Such souls, in sooth, illume with lustresplendid
That glimpse, glad land wherein, the Vision saith,
Earth's wrongs are ended.

BIRD MYSTERIES PROBED BY EXPERTS

The great mystery of bird migration, which has been studied by naturalists for thousands of years, will be the principal topic when the American Ornithologists' Union holds its fortieth meeting at Chicago, October 24 to 26.

Records obtained from bird banding are throwing interesting new light on this age-old wonder. Still the interest grows as startling new facts are being brought to light by these records. A blue teal duck banded near its breeding ground in Maine has been located later near the mouth of the Niger river in Africa.

Many North American birds have been traced to their winter home in South America, while it has been discovered that other of our common birds will fly for hundreds of miles and then come back year after year to the same state, county, farm, field and into the same trap where the little markers were placed upon their legs.

How and why they do this will be discussed. The effect of shortening of the daylight as one of the things which starts the calendar-like regularity of the movement of birds will be discussed at the meeting. Scientists are planning to use the slow motion picture to analyze the action of the feathered flyers and throw light upon some of the hitherto hidden secrets of their lives.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

LESSONS FROM THE DEATH RATE

[Milwaukee Sentinel]

Mortality statistics are regarded as depressing reading by a great many people. Sometimes, however, they are distinctly the reverse, if the lessons they convey are properly apprehended.

Take for example the figures concerning the death rate for the United States for 1921, recently published by the department of commerce.

These figures show the lowest death rate on record, 11 per 1000 of population. The lowest previous record was in 1919, when 12.8 was recorded. In the great influenza year, 1918, the rate went up to 18. In 1900 it was 17.2. In 1890 it was 19.6 and in 1880 it was 19.8.

In respect to infant mortality even more remarkable results are shown. A few years ago, as an eastern commentator points out, if the deaths could have been held to 100 for each 1000 babies born, everybody would have thought it little short of miraculous. Last year the rate was 76 for 1000.

There hasn't been much of the spectacular in the bringing about of these results. They are the fruit of patient work of scientists, the thoughtful and devoted labor of physicians, the educational efforts of societies organized for the prevention of sickness and the promotion of health.

But, even with all these efforts, unless a high standard of living prevailed, unless cleanliness, comfort and plenty were the general rule in American homes, the death rate would be vastly greater.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

One way to get beyond the sounding honk of the auto horn, and to avoid the necessity of dodging machines, and to keep the gasoline bill from mounting, is to take to the hills, afoot. This is known as hiking. It is good for the muscles, the wind, the digestion. It may be made a delightful experience. The hiker gets into the midst of scenic beauty of which he can only glimpse the outer edges while whirring by in flivver or limousine.

HENRY JAMES

There is frank fraternity among trail folk. They are friendly on sight. They tell the stranger where to find the most charming spots. They give advice as to equipment and speed. The greenhorn is counselled not to overtax his powers. Too much hiking as a beginning has spoiled what might have been a model hiker. and cut him off from opportunities that inhere as a natural right, to every able-bodied resident or tourist.

Consider Eaton canyon; not much of a canyon as such mountain features go in southern California, but well worth considering. It leads through friendly shadows, cast by high walls, and trees, that cling defiantly to them, thrusting tenacious roots into every crevice. The trail crosses again and again the bed of an ancient stream, with much scrambling over water-worn rocks. Deeper and deeper into the cleft, and the stream becomes visible, but audible, first. Higher up there is a delicate ribbon of falls, murmuring down the mossy sides hundreds of feet. A little farther, other falls, not so lofty, but made lovely by a mirror-like pool. Just an easy hike for the season's start.

* * *

The automobile road up Mount Wilson lacks much of being as fearsome as it looks. It is a safe drive for any good machine and competent driver. Last Sunday as the sun had set on the lower levels, but while its evening splendor made the heights radiant still, thirty machines were observed coming down the last long grade of the road. They were well filled. Many of the passengers were women, not one of them looked anxious.

At this writing there has been a single autumn rain. It was a gentle but persistent shower, prolonged for a day. Yet that one bathing gave the near-by mountains a new aspect. There has not been time for new vegetation to start, but the hills had their faces washed and are smiling to be clean.

Women entering into pugilism give a new definition to the plan of absolute equality. People who esteem the gentler sex most highly wish that it would keep out of the ring, and thus remain gentle. The idea of a lady adorned with a cauliflower ear, somehow seems distasteful.

* * *

There has sprung up a custom of "reading the character" of prisoners by visible signs. It is a thoroughly bad custom, and whatever its ostensible purpose, certain to create fallacious ideas. When an "expert" analyzes the facial expression of a prisoner, or judges by the shape of hands, the color of eyes, the mannerisms, the course is futile as to revelation of any fact. For example, a woman prisoner, commonly believed to have lured another woman to a lonely spot and there beaten out her brains in a frenzy of atrocity, is described in a newspaper by one of these "experts" as one "who would make a good nurse." The expert "sees no evil" in the countenance of the woman. But who cares what the expert sees? The woman at bar is not being tried as to the angle of her chin, or her manner of controlling her eyes. In other words, an effort has been made to create sympathy, which is no part of any paper's duty.

Judge Lindsey of Denver said recently that two gross offenders against young girls in that city were men connected with fashionable churches. In both cases, he affirms, the church authorities did all in their power to suppress the facts, both culprits being allowed to resign and go to other cities.

This is the same little judge who habitually speaks right out in meeting, occasionally finds himself in not water in consequence, but splashes about in the same, quiet uncooked and apparently content. If the churches he almost mentions really are "fashionable" it would seem the duty of earnest and sincere people to worship where there may be less style but more sincerity.

* * *

Many people coming to southern California now are sending their household furniture in advance. Naturally they are buying only single trip tickets, which will tend to relieve the railroads, now much annoyed by the sale of return coupons to hopeful travelers, who thereby subject themselves to the humiliation of being gently urged to get off and walk.

* * *

Tax returns show that there are some immense incomes in California. The fact had been suspected in advance. Many of the residents either are large figures in the business world yet, or they have made their several marks and several fortunes, and chosen to live here for the same excellent reasons that people or less means elect to do likewise.

* * *

Nations seem to have different customs. In the troublous days of Mexico, if a dozen bandits attacked a town or a train, they were called an army. In China an army of 6000 acquires a railroad by force, and the cable designates them as bandits.

There does not appear to the residents of Hollywood, or to those of the community, any reason why Hollywood should not have the benefit of adequate transportation facilities. WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

Crush Willoughby came trotting into the office this morning with a bang-up business proposition. It spelled profits and safety and all that sort of thing in box car letters. But I would not go into it with him.

"Why not?" asked Crush, angrily. "Isn't it a good thing?"

"Sure is, Crush," I said. "But I'm not fixed to handle it just now."

The only thing wrong with the scheme is the fact that poor old Crush is connected with it. He began life some years ago with a very comfortable little fortune. He need never have worked, but he was big enough and strong enough to realize that the man who does not work is a contemptible being, no matter how he may cover up his idleness. Unfortunately he lacks something. His business affairs go to pieces under his hands. He has had a dozen chances to establish himself soundly, and each time he has failed. I doubt whether Crush can associate solid business men with him in any scheme now.

"'You've had too much bad luck," is the emphatic way in which I broke the news to him. "Before any one will want to go in with you in anything you must rehabilitate yourself. Make good. Then people will be glad to join you."

But I know that he will not. He is full of energy, but after rushing about like an ant on a hot rock all forenoon he spends the afternoon fooling about the country club with the girl he says he is going to marry as soon as business picks up. He postpones business appointments in order to take tea with some charmer. He is the most open-handed man in the world, and a favorite at the club, but business men like to put their money in with a man who watches each nickel go out and has a red flag up so it can find its way back again. His activities are not continuous. He does forty miles a day on the meter, but examination shows that he wasn't going anywhere.

If poor old Crush lets go of this proposition he is now interested in I'm going to handle it myself. Ordinary, sane, careful business management is all that it needs. But I don't want Crush as a partner. Just when the business needs him most he would be out on the links.

MULTIPLE LISTING ADOPTED BY THE LOCAL REALTORS

Initiation Fee of Organization Is advanced and Will Be Increased

At its meeting Wednesday noon the Glendale realty board ratified the vote of 30 to 5, by which the organization voted to adopt the multiple listing system of real estate. The motion to ratify this vote, which makes this system a part of the constitution of the board, was made by Charles B. Guthrie, one of the leading realtors in Glendale.

The board also decided by unanimous vote to change the initiation fee of the organization from $10 to $25 and to raise the latter to $50 at the expiration of 30 days.

Dr. Stanley B. Wilson of the state board of education was present and addressed the realty members, taking for his subject, "Modern Education." In his address Dr. Wilson drew a verbal picture of the difference between modern business and that of many years ago. He congratulated the realtors on being in the work of providing homes for those wishing to come to Glendale to live and stated that in his opinion the real estate business is one of the highest callings a man could engage in.

At this meeting the following committees were appointed:

Entertainment — Spencer Robinson, chairman; J. W. Pearson and Mrs. Stuart.

Committee to arrange for the American Legion demonstration—W. L. Truitt, H. M. Miller and O. C. Kroehle.

It was decided to postpone the regular annual meeting of the board until next Wednesday.

A man, known among his friends as "Little Tich"—owing to his lack of inches—has a son, just returned from abroad, who happens to be unusually tall.

The father has as good reason for being proud of the son as the son has of being proud of his father, but in the last few days the lesser of the two has done a good deal introducing of "the boy" to friends.

At his club one evening the little man stood his son in front of an ancient and distinguished member, and, gazing upward, much as if he were admiring the topmost point of St. Paul's cathedral, remarked: "Allow me to introduce my son."

"Ah," observed the distinguished member. "A block off the old chip, I perceive."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE EX-KAISER'S MEMOIRS

How did I come to get Heligoland? I have often been asked that question. Just now it does not interest me. The question that bothers me these days is, "How did I come to lose it?"

I always have kept a diary since early boyhood days, however, and by turning to it can find an account of every incident of importance. Opening it now, I find this entry on page 3456:

"Got a telephone call from Miss ——, the one with the wonderful eyes. She asked me if I knew that I had failed to pay the taxicab driver and that she had had to settle herself. I asked her not to 'phone me at the house, and promised to see her Tuesday."

So I determined to take Heligoland. I proposed to England that she give it to me in exchange for Zanzibar, a ukulele as good as new, one second-hand pool table, a polo mallet, and three cases of champagne. England demanded in addition Witu, an East Africa province; a barrel of pretzels, a set of Ford tires, and a German silver flask. I finally accepted her terms. Thus was I again instrumental in dissipating the shadows of war that hung over Europe.

Chapter IX—Events Leading Up to the World War

This part of my memoirs gives me a severe headache. I am aware that the allied nations accuse me of starting war and that this impression prevails in many quarters. Far be it from such. I hate war. I have hated it ever since the winter of 1918.

True, in the summer of 1914 I gave the word that sent the German troops marching through Luxembourg and into Belgium. But I had no idea of war. I thought it was going to be a parade.

I still think, however, we might have won had it not been for Hindenburg's lyin'.

Chapter X—America, I Love Thee

Every little while I hear the talk of America having been driven into the war by such incidents as the Lusitania sinking and the submarine war on neutrals. This makes me so mad I shave with my buck-saw.

Since my retirement I have read the books written by great American students and I am happy to state that in every instance these books bear out my contention that the United States planned war on Germany from the start. I refer to "Why, Wherefore, and Who," by Charles Dumm of Bayonne, N. J.; "Wild Geese I have Known," by Otis Dummer of Walla-Walla, and the treatise "Can Such Be So?" in the April number of the Bartenders' Guide for 1919.

TREND OF FASHION

By HELEN MERRILL EMERY

One of the most interesting phases of the present season is the survival of the beaded frock, which, contrary to rumors of several weeks ago, is still decidedly in vogue and in its latest version more beautiful than ever. The tiniest beads of glass, china and metal are formed into patterns which in coloring and design are perfect reproductions of mosaics and embroideries centuries old.

The glowing colors and exquisite texture of modern materials serve as an admirable background to bring out the beauty of these beaded motifs.

Several of the cleverest designers have chosen velvet in brilliant shades of green, blue, orange, and the new shade of Italian pink, a rose tone that is extremely flattering for frocks of striking beauty. All shades of rose are much in evidence in the fashions for evening. One of these, a deep, lovely tint, is used for the model illustrated.

Fashioned on the long lines that are so generally becoming, the simple dignity of this frock of velvet has a rather more than usual appeal.

It is an excellent choice for a woman who still prefers the slender straight silhouette. The entire dress is covered with a design carried out in pink glass beads. The panel at the left side is lined with cloth of silver and a girdle of braided silver braid adds a decorative touch.

One of the most interesting costumes seen in a long time is a dress and gathered cape of black velvet, both entirely covered with an intricate design of the smallest steel beads. The effect is remarkably attractive. The note of steel color is repeated in a soft deep collar of taupe wolf.

In a collection of evening frocks notable for the vivid colors used, a gown of white velvet stood out in sharp contrast.

WHITE SLAVERS IN LONDON

LONDON.—White slavers were active police believe, in the disappearance of three pretty girls from their homes in London. They are Eileen Blackborrow, Alice Randall, and Theresa Scott; all graceful girls with the bloom of youth on their cheeks. Police sleuths declare that the white slavers enticed them away in motor cars, probably "picking them up" on the pretext of a country drive. None of the girls has since been seen.

Gentlemen: In reply to your inquiry as to what form our advertising for the season of 1922-1923 shall take, will say that we have given the matter careful consideration and have concluded that we had best stick to the newspapers.

Many other forms of adverrtising have been urged upon us and some of them have merit, but upon the whole we believe we get the best results f om the local newspapers and you may arrange to place ver much the greater portion of our appropriation in that field.

We are especially pleased with the results we have received through advertising in the Glendale Daily Press.

Very truly yours,

ET SMART & FINAL CO.

W. J. FLEENER IS BACK FROM LONG TRIP EAST

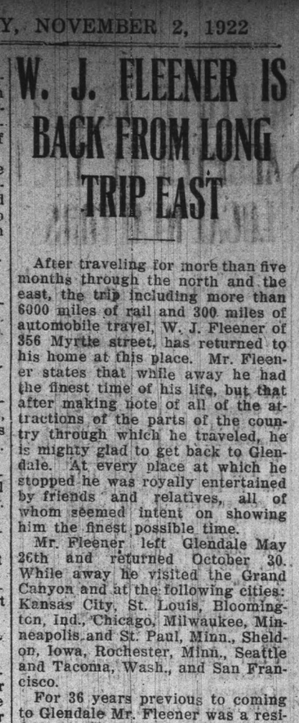
After traveling for more than five months through the north and the east, the trip including more than 6000 miles of rail and 300 miles of automobile travel, W. J. Fleener of 356 Myrtle street, has returned to his home at this place. Mr. Fleener states that while away he had the finest time of his life, but that after making note of all of the attractions of the parts of the country through which he traveled, he is mighty glad to get back to Glendale. At every place at which he stopped he was royally entertained by friends and relatives, all of whom seemed intent on showing him the finest possible time.

Mr. Fleener left Glendale May 26th and returned October 30. While away he visited the Grand Canyon and at the following cities: Kansas City, St. Louis, Bloomington, Ind., Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., Sheldon, Iowa, Rochester, Minn., Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., and San Francisco.

For 36 years previous to coming to Glendale Mr. Fleener was a resident of Minneapolis, being a member of the fire department of that place for twenty years. He says that the country in and surrounding Minneapolis is one of the most beautiful in the world.

Mr. Fleener is now living with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Pratt on Myrtle street. He has been here three years and intends to stay.

Pictured Story of the Evolution of the Skirt



Paris decreed that skirts should go up. Then Paris decreed that they should come down. Each time there was some dissent on this side of the Atlantic but each time America followed the made set by the French capital. Above are the two extremes, the lower photograph showing the long skirt now favored by Parisian designers.

British War Veteran With U. S. Buddies

Regimental Sergeant Major W. Stuart of the famous Black Watch, hero of Mons, Ypres and the Somme, was right at home with his American "buddies" in the American Legion convention in New Orleans, for two American divisions—the Twenty-seventh, of New York, and the Thirtieth, of North and South Carolina and Tennessee—had fought alongside his outfit in Flanders.

When you hear a man refer to a baby as "it" you can safely bet that he is a bachelor.

WATER AND POWER DEBATE AT HIGH FRIDAY NIGHT

Distinguished Speakers to Discuss the Measure in Public

The public debate on the water and power act, proposed amendment No. 19, which is to be held at the local high school auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday of this week, will be of great interest to all voters. The affirmative will be supported by Judge John A. Burgan, formerly of New Jersey, but now a resident of Los Angeles, while Mr. Louis D'Elia, an attorney of Los Angeles will support the negative side. Following the debate the audience will have the opportunity of asking questions regarding the subject which will be answered by the speakers. This meeting, arranged by the business men's Bible class of the First M. E. church, will be favored with an excellent musical number and will be presided over by our assistant city attorney, Ray Morrow. It is expected that a large crowd will greet these able speakers.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the haid after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

KELLY DEFEATS TEX SOUTHERN OF L. A. AT YEOMAN HALL

Tex Southern of Los Angeles met his second defeat in the local ring when Joe Kelly won a decision from him in the main event of the boxing show at the Yoeman hall last night. Kelly took things easy and toyed with the dark skinned boy. Southern was not able to land more than six blows and his remarkable footwork failed to keep Kelly away from him.

Red Frenchie of Los Angeles was knocked out in the third round of his slugging match with Christ Columbus. It was a curtain raiser but proved far more popular than the main event. Both boys forgot science and swung wild at each other. Red caught one of those wild rights, and took the count.

Kid Sardine and Joe Burns, two heavyweight newsboys, amused the crowd with "love taps" and were given a draw.

Joe Eyraud made good his successful debut two weeks ago by winning a decision from Battling Chico. Joe is fast and uses his feet while the Los Angeles boy stands up and swings wild. Although he landed some hard blows on Joe's body he couldn't keep the local boy's glove away from his chin.

Battling King of Glendale substituted for Kid Essick, who is sick, in his scheduled bout with Frankie Miller. King evidently didn't train. He was a regular punching bag and took a lot of punishment in the four rounds. Miller got the decision.

The Woodmen will stage a classy boxing show on Armistice day at the American Legion hall, it was announced last night. On that date Chick Watson will meet Johnnie Myers while Walter Dodge will settle his argument with Jack Price, the flashy Mexican.

When a man gets his first gray hairs his wife tells the neighbors they are due to his strenuous business cares.

HUMOR AND FUN IN THE LADDER JINX AT GLENDALE

Edward Horton, the leading man in Jess Robbins' production, "The Ladder Jinx," which is shown at the Glendale Theatre had an uncomfortable fifteen minutes during the making of the production.

In the sequences in question the hero is required to hide in a small barrel in order to elude pursuit from policemen which come in four different directions.

The barrel selected was a rubbish receptacle in a vacant lot in the neighborhood of the studio. Producer Robbins knew that Horton was a thin man but did not figure he would have to double up like a jack knife in order to get in the barrel.

Horton, who is willing to try anything once, leaped into the barrel and nearly fainted when he had to double himself into a very constrained position. It would not have been so bad had not Producer Robbins required the policemen to rehearse fifteen or sixteen times while Horton was crammed up inside the barrel.

Senator Shields to Go to Supreme Bench

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift

"I NEVER have been able to get ahead much. Luck has always seemed to be against me."

S. W. STRAUS

This was one of the closing sentences of a pathetic letter written recently by a man well on in years and in dire financial straits. Such statements always arouse one's deepest pity and, at the same time should teach a most valuable lesson in thrift.

We hear much about good luck and bad luck in the world—a great deal more than is best for our progress.

When we analyze personal success we find the element of luck had little or nothing to do with it. And when we analyze the failures we find that bad luck was not to blame.

So-called bad luck should be a blessing in disguise, for in overcoming it we gain strength, courage and ability. And so-called good luck very often brings direct or eventual failure.

If you are in any way depending on the winds of good luck to waft you into the harbor of your dreams you will be most grievously disappointed.

Rely on yourself. Learn your lessons in the rugged school of hard work, thrift, patience and perseverance. Scratch the word luck from your vocabulary. If things go against you accept them as the challenge of a worthy foe and increase your resolutions to win. If things come your way don't get the idea that you have become one especially favored of the gods, such as those you read about in your fairy-book days. Look out for apparent good-luck. It may prove your undoing as it has in the cases of many others.

Another Dance at the Court Shops

The Court Shops are to have another dance Saturday evening at which the music will be furnished by the new shop to be opened by Mr. and Mrs. Harry James, where the Nordskog records are to be sold. Mr. James will probably make other contributions to the program and all patrons and friends of the shop are invited.

RIVERSIDE WATER SHED DAMAGED

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Nov. 2.—Riverside's watershed has been damaged as a result of the recent forest fires in the City Creek region in the San Bernardino mountains.

During the fires Riverside was under a haze of smoke and a shower of white ashes. In order to help fight the fires 30 Indian boys were sent from the Sherman school; they were later relieved by a smilar number from the school. A number of junior college and high school boys also aided in fighting the flames.

NEW INDUSTRY OPENS IN THE CITY

C. E. Jones who came to Glendale from the east about three years ago, and followed Mr. Downing as the Western Union representative in this city and who decided to enter its business life by purchasing the confectionery business once known as "Pelleys" and now known as the "Poppy Shop," is providing Glendale with a new industry.

As he tells the story, last April while testing an orange confection, he conceived the idea of an "orange bar" which would incorporate the fruit itself as well as the flavor. After several weeks of experimenting he perfected it and applied for a patent as it proved to be a pure orange product that was healthful as well as delicious. The road of discovery lengthened and an orange powder product was produced for which a patent was also sought, this last to be used in the dressing of salads, for icing and other purposes for which it can be advantageously employed. On testing the market for these products which Mr. Jones began manufacturing in the rear of the Poppy Shop, so great a demand was discovered it was found necessary to establish a real factory with room to expand. A site was found at 1511 San Fernando Road where the factory was opened October 23, under the name "Nifto Orange Product Company," with a capacity for turning out 300 boxes per day of Orange Bar. This as well as the capacity to turn out marmalade will be increased by the installation of additional machinery and equipment and when complete it is expected the factory will employ 25 to 30 workers with a pay roll that will be worthwhile.

The confectionery business is Mr. Jones' natural element as he comes of a candy making family, his grandfather having been the head of a large factory in Ironton, Ohio.

Watch the Man With the Advertising Idea

—he may be the coming brains of your business

Look over the young executives who direct the retail and the manufacturing businesses of New York.

A surprisingly large percentage of them have reached their goals by advocating advertising, by directing the advertising and by making the advertising work.

If yours is a business which doesn't advertise, don't close your ears to the story of your young men. Help them to think it out—listen to their plans and their hopes. Add the counsel of years of experience to the minds of the men who are planning the future of your business.

Did you ever expect that iron could be advertised profitably? Few advertising men did. Did you ever expect to eat trade-marked grape-fruit? It is an accomplished fact at thousands of breakfasts this morning. Did you ever think the dairymen could profitably use the forces of publicity, or that a barbershop could grow to twenty-five, largely by the power of the written word and an ideal of service?

The coming executives realize that a business exists, in the last analysis, in the minds of its customers, rather than in four walls and a roof, and, perhaps, that is why they are coming executives.

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactorily fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm considers its elementary duties.

BABSON'S LETTER

BILLION DOLLAR BUG

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Nov. 2.—In view of the sensational reports relative to conditions in the south, especially due to the boll weevil, Roger W. Babson has been asked to make an analysis of the southern situation as it now appears from the viewpoint of a statistician. Mr. Babson's statement is as follows:

"In the so-called 'cotton belt,' which stretches across many of the southern states, is produced 60 per cent of the world's supply of cotton. In fact, this cotton has been so important that the south has practicaly given its entire attention to cotton and thus become a 'one-crop' country. The boll weevil is now destroying a large percentage of this cotton crop, so that in many sections only one bale of cotton is gathered where two were originally produced. Of course, great efforts are being made to control the boll weevil, and science will ultimately find a solution to this problem. In the meantime, however, there are several factors to be considered.

"First, our supply of cotton will be greatly reduced until this weevil is controlled. The amount produced for the next few years may not be more than half of the requirements of former years. This means that high prices may be expected both for raw cotton and for all manufactured cotton goods for some time to come.

"Secondly, the south, which has been a 'one-crop' country, will be forced to raise other crops and become at least self-supporting. In previous years the south has imported from the middle west nearly all the corn and a large proportion of the meat which it has consumed. This year the south has raised sufficient corn for its own use. It is also successfully ridding itself of the 'tick' which is so detrimental to raising good cattle. Herds of fine stock are rapidly increasing, and the south, which has an ideal climate for all-year stock grazing, should soon be one of the most important stock-raising sections of the country. This means that the middle west will have a serious competitor in corn and stock raising.

"The third factor to consider is that the south will steadily increase its manufacture of cotton into finished goods. Already it is shipping large quantities of these manufactured cotton goods into the northern states. These southern mills can produce very economically and are at the source of the raw materials. This means that the cotton mills of the eastern states will have serious competition. Owing to the present immigration restrictions, these northern mills will soon be greatly handicapped as to labor supply, which fact should also aid the south.

"A fourth factor is that the southern farmers are employing less labor on their farms than under previous conditions, many of them reducing labor one-half. The reason is that the farmers are planting a larger acreage in corn, hay and other crops and less acreage in cotton. These other crops require less labor to work than cotton does. Today there is a very considerable unemployment of farm labor in the south. This means that there will be ample labor for cotton mills and other forms of manufacturing, and for the development of natural resources.

"Fifthly and finally, the south is realizing its need of effort and struggle in order to hold its economic position. The boll weevil is forcing upon it a new economic condition which it is now bravely struggling to meet. I believe it has the will to meet these new conditions, but it needs capital. The south has large undeveloped resources. It has coal, mineral deposits, and water power. Its seaport cities have good harbors, which are strategically located for commerce with Latin America and Southern Europe. Thus, as the south more fully realizes and grasps the opportunities which it holds, it will grow and develop rapidly into commercial importance. This means that during the next few years the south will offer many very attractive opportunities for the investor. Just at present the south is hard hit by the boll weevil, but this very fact is bringing it to a realization of its needs and opportunities. Thus, within a few years, a new economic condition should be established and the south should be more prosperous than at any time in the past."

The Babsonchart index dropped off one point this week, standing now at 4 per cent below normal. This recession, however, has no especial significance. Further advance should be expected during the coming month.

CHOICE OF PROFESSION

(From Walla Walla Bulletin)

"More effective vocational guidance is one of the outstanding needs of our school system," said Dr. F. F. Nelder of the State College of Washington at the joint institute for teachers. "A study made by Dr. Douglass of our faculty and myself in which we analyzed the vocational interest and choices of nearly 1300 young people about to graduate from Washington high schools, clearly proved this.

"Our study showed that young people do not know nearly as much as they should concerning the number and variety of jobs in the world, or how to prepare themselves to find and to fill those jobs. For instance, of nearly 1100 young men, over 30 per cent had decided on the engineering profession. This large percentage is probably characteristic of all our high school graduates. Were they all to attempt to become practicing engineers, we would soon have many more young engineers than could possibly find employment. White it is doubtless true that many of these lads expect to find in engineering courses an attractive means of higher education nevertheless our study proved that more of our young men seek engineering training than the demands of engineering profession warrant.

"Of the boys whom we studied, only 13 per cent were ambitious to have careers as farmers—a calling which offers far greater independence in many respects. Our young people in high schools lack intelligent guidance and counsel in respect to choice of occupation! They have knowledge of too few callings.

"Similar conditions prevail as regards the girls. Too many plan to become teachers or stenographers, chiefly because those are the callings they really know something about. Of those we studied, over 36 per cent planned to become teachers, and nearly 17 per cent stenographers. Apparently these are regarded as the best means of spending the few years between high school graduation and marriage. The entrance of women into practically all trades and professions has greatly increased the employment chances of young women, but somehow our school courses have not succeeded in reflecting this fact."

CHRISTIANITY IN CHINA

In 1807 there was one missionary. The number of native Protestants is now estimated to be 400,000, while the Roman Catholic Chinese are estimated (1921-1922) to be 1,994,483.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

MANY YEARS AGO

When I was just a little boy,
Oh, many years ago,
The brook where I could fish was far,
A couple of miles or so,
But I could go there on the run,
Nor ever walked there slow,
But chores I had to do at home,
They always tired me so.

And I could take my little axe
And cut a forest down
If we were playing camp somewhere
A mile or two from town,
But at the woodpile, in the yard
To chop wood for the day
Would wear me out the first few blows,
And sap my strength away.

And I could play wild Indian
Far from the town somewhere.
And grub the poison ivy out,
And make the whole place fair
And never tire me, not a bit,
But Oh, the work was hard,
When I staid home on Saturday
An hour to rake the yard.

And I would be a scout and run
A mile or two or three,
And never tire my legs or feet,
Indeed, it rested me.
But errands to be done at home,
Or one or two or more,
They made my legs ache awfully,
And made my bare feet sore.

And I was always first upon
The road when off to play,
And skipped and ran and hopped and jumped,
The gayest of the gay.
But when I had to do my chores,
How sad I was and slow,
When I was just a little boy,
Oh, many years ago.

AIMING BLOW AT LOVE IN TENNIS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Renewed efforts to take the "love" out of tennis may be made in January, when the United States Lawn Tennis associtaion meets for its annual session.

Chances are that no official action will be taken to change the language of scoring, as it has been all hashed over before without success.

If the "love" is to be taken out of the game it probably will come about through the adoption of the scoring as practiced in the west.

During the national championships at Philadelphia it was noticed that all the umpires from the middle west and south omitted "love" when they were calling the scores.

Instead of calling "15 love" the westerners would call "15" and name the player in the lead, like—"15 Tilden."

* * * * * * *

Use of the seeded draw proved so successful in the national championships that it no doubt will be retained as the official method of pairing the players in all the big tournaments.

Sentiment in the middle west, while not against the seeded draw particularly, is said to favor an amendment to make the draw optional for the committee in charge of the tournament.

* * * * * * *

Some lively scraps are expected to result when the association comes to awarding the national championships for next season.

Forest Hills, which has been the pet club of the present regime, is said to be wanting the men's singles championships which have been staged very successfully for the past two years at Philadelphia.

The West Side club at Forest Hills has been favored with the Davis cup challenge ruond and the women's nationals, but the latter proved somewhat of a "bust" last summer and it is understood the club would like to pass it off on some other organization.

Efforts probably will be made to gather some color for the tournament next season. Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen may be invited to return to play Mrs. Mallory and Miss Kathlene McKane, the young British star, also may be asked to compete.

* * * * * * *

Julian S. Myrick, president of the association, is reported to be considering retirement from office. Strong pressure, no doubt, will be brought to bear to keep him in office, as his regime has been wonderfully successful and his individual care and interest are largely responsible for the present flourishing condition of the game.

* * * * * * *

Another nice task—it is always a bad job—will fall upon the ranking committee when it settles down to name the first ten players. William T. Tilden, unofficially the world's champion, of course will be named No. 1, but the friends of William M. Johnston can point out that the wonderful little Californian beat the champion three timse in major tournaments.

* * * * * * *

The first ten named by the committee might well be regarded as a world's ranking if the committee should care to rate the European players who were here during the Davis cup matches. Practically all of the star players from the other side with the exception of the British, engaged in most of the important tournaments here during the season.

HUGE AIRSHIPS TO CARRY HUNDRED PASSENGERS

LONDON. — Airship passenger service encircling three-fourths of the globe will soon be inaugurated.

The British government is expected shortly to announce plans for a government air service between England and India. It will operate on a larger scale than anything heretofore conceived. Later, the service will be extended to Australia.

Definite plans have also been prepared for the establishment of a regular airship line across the Atlantic. This latter venture has been undertaken by the General air service.

Officials of the British air ministry state that they are prepared to offer any assistance. It is not impossible that the trans-oceanic airway will be run in conjunction with the British government's Indian service.

A special fleet of huge aircraft will be constructed for the route between London and New York. Each ship will be 900 feet long, 114 feet in diameter and capable of carrying 100 passengers.

They will have a cruising speed of 75 miles per hour compared with 25 knots now attained by the speediest ocean liners.

Bankers, commercial representatives and government officials will profit by this extraordinary reduction in the time required to cross the Atlantic.

Additional ships will be constructed as the popularity of air travel increases among tourists to and from the United States.

The journey from New York to London will take 48 hours. The passenger quarters will consist of well-furnished state-rooms, complete restaurant facilities, music and every provision for comfort and convenience.

It is hoped to inaugurate the trans-Atlantic service during the fall of next year.

CORN CHOWDER

Two cups corn (cooked), two medium potatoes (cooked; one medium carrot (cooked), four tablespoons navy beans or soy beans (cooked), four slices bacon, two and one-half cups milk, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Cut bacon in pieces, then fry; add the cooked vegetable, then the milk. Cook until thoroughly heated add seasonings and serve. Uncooked vegetables may be used but should be cooked before they are combined.

Henry Ford's Own Story

How I started
How I fought prejudice
How I clung to my idea
How I ignored experts
How I defied precedents
How I upset traditions
How I revolutionized financing

A thrilling narrative, bristling with startling declarations, written by Mr. Ford in collaboration with Samuel Crowthers, to run in the SUNDAY TIMES Illustrated Magazine, opening chapters to appear Next Sunday, November 5th.

Is Ford Right, Wrong or 50-50?

You may flatly disagree with him. Many will. You may call him a creature of luck. Perhaps he is. You may say his ideas would wreck the average man or business. Maybe they would. You may claim the automobile made Ford more than Ford made the automobile. That, too, is possible. But whether you believe or doubt, you are going to be energized by a multi-millionaire power plant. Whether you own a business, practice a profession or work for wages, you are going to get JOLTS. You are going to read a RIP-SNORTING FIGHTING ARTICLE—see your pet ideas punched in the nose. When it's over, you may be boiling mad or merely amused, but YOU'LL KNOW YOU'VE READ SOMETHING!

He Answers:

Who can succeed?
Why do men balk themselves?
Can saving be overdone?
What do most men want?
Does fear kill effort?
What are ideas worth?
Is cash the only tool?
Are salesmen incompetent?
Are mechanics all alike?
Are experts over-rated?
Do business men blunder?
Can ability be measured?
Is the top overcrowded?
Who makes the big money?
What is America's future?
What about YOUR OWN CASE?
